
PUT DOWN THAT DONUT

The Fruit Guys are aiming to help offices combat the break room table full of fattening sweets with farm-to-office fruit deliveries. The deliveries come in a 75% to 100% post-consumer recycled box that's teeming with fruit just ripe enough to eat for either 25 or 50. Selection changes weekly to reflect the shifting growing seasons and varying tastes. There's a "Harvest Flyer" mix with mandarin oranges, a variety of pears, tangelos, strawberries and grapefruits, an "Organic" mix of similar, but all-USDA stamped fruits and a "Staples" mix with apples, bananas and oranges. Prices range from $32 for a 25-serving case of the staples, to $84 for a 50-serving box of organic fruits. But the savings in terms of employee health and wellness, not to mention increased energy and productivity, are truly priceless. —Brita Belli
